Re-Entry Move 'Must Be Undone'

(Compiled from AP Despatches)

Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir said Monday night she made clear to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold that Israel will not agree to "a belligerent Egypt" returning to the Gaza Strip.

Mrs. Meir met more than two hours with Hammarskjold after talks in Washington earlier in the day. She issued the following statement:

"I brought to the attention of the secretary-general the attitude of the Israeli governmen that we cannot agree with a belligerent Egypt coming back to Gaza."

Replying to a question of whether she thought Egyptian re-entry into Gaza could be undone, she said "it must be."

She added: "That is something that those in a responsible position will have to work out."

Cairo radio announced earlier Monday that all UN Emergency Force troops are being removed from Gaza headquarters and Gaza Strip towns by Wednesday. Egypt's new grip on Gaza became firmer.

No Assurances

State Secretary Dulles was reported to have told senators Monday the United States had made no secret promises to support Israel's position in the Middle East.

Fresh from a conference with Mrs. Golda Meir, Dulles was said to have been pressed as to whether the U.S. had promised Israel to back up her claim of free passage of ships through the Gulf of Aqaba.

Dulles was quoted as replying there were no commitments beyond the expression of "hopes and expectations" that Israel's withdrawal of military forces from the Gaza Strip would lead to that country's having free passage through the Gulf of Aqaba and other gains.

Senator William Fulbright (Dem., Ark.) said he asked Dulles what new assurances, if any, were given Mrs. Meir.

Fulbright said Dulles replied: "None, whatever."

Mrs. Meir flew to Washington from Jerusalem amid Israeli statements that her goal was U.S. support of Israel's "stop-Nasser" campaign.

A brief, vague, joint statement issued after the Washington talks ended by saying there would be "continued consultation" if necessary.

What it added up to was that Mrs. Meir seemed to have blunted her lance on the shield of Dulles' adamant disinclination to abandon the U.S. friends-to-both policy in the Middle East.

Fresh Concern

Meanwhile, American officials had new cause for alarm in the troubled area. Saudi Arabia's foreign minister, Crown Prince Faisal, arrived in Cairo for talks with Nasser.

This was a follow-up to Saudi Arabian statements that the Gulf of Aqaba is Arab territory. It alarmed U.S. officials, fearful lest Saudi Arabia get embroiled in the Egypt-Israel quarrel. If that happened, U.S. policy towards Saudi Arabia would have to be reappraised.

"We will accept no bargaining on this point," Faisal told newspaper men. "We will fight every effort to decrease the Arabs' sovereignty over their territorial waters."

Faisal reiterated the declaration of his government March 15 that Saudi Arabia "will take all measures to defend its historical and legitimate rights in the gulf and to protect the safety of its territory and of its territorial waters."

Route to Mecca

Saudi Arabia has a special interest in the Aqaba Gulf since it is the sea route of many Moslem pilgrims to Mecca from Turkey, Iran and Syria down. The Saudi Arabians say they fear any Israeli encroachment on the waterway might interfere with pilgrimage rights.

Meanwhile the United Nations Emergency Force had its Gaza headquarters Monday but moved increasing numbers of troops to 24-hour guard duty on the Israeli frontier.

Egypt moved more firmly into control of the Gaza Strip.

Cairo radio said the Egyptian governor of Gaza announced the UNEF has agreed to move out of its headquarters in Gaza and leave all towns in the strip within 48 hours. The radio indicated the movement of UNEF forces to the Israeli frontier would be completed Wednesday.

Many Egyptian military vehicles, mostly Soviet-made jeeps and trucks, showed up in Gaza but aside from 50 military policemen who arrived last week with the new governor, the number of Egyptian military personnel in the strip could not be determined.

The principal task of the UNEF now is to prevent any infiltration across the line from either the Gaza or Israeli side. The troops are under orders to warn any violators and to fire if the warning is not heeded.

UN Undersecretary Dr. Ralph Bunche and UNEF commander Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada flew to the strip Monday on a survey mission.

New Bounty

Iron Drive Starts

A further step towards the establishment of a basic iron and steel industry in B.C. was taken last night with the first reading of a bill authorizing the government to pay a bounty up to $5,000,000 over 10 years on pig iron, sponge iron or fluid iron from ore smelted in the province.

"This is part of the program of an all-out drive to establish a basic smelting industry in the province," said Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan.

The bounty is intended to encourage producers to open up a steel smelter. They can, by negotiating with the minister, enter into an agreement for the bounty.

Alliance Patching Planned

PRIME MINISTER MACMILLAN

LEICESTER, Eng. (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan said Monday night the object of his Bermuda conference with President Eisenhower is to clear up differences and "restore Anglo-American relations as the cornerstone of world peace."

His speech on the eve of his departure, delivered to a meeting of local Conservatives here, was his first major policy statement since assuming office in January. It was devoted largely to domestic affairs but began with a reference to Bermuda.

"Our object at Bermuda is to clear up any differences between Britain and the United States and to restore Anglo-American relations as the corner stone of world peace," Macmillan said. "That is plenty to talk about.

"There is the obscure and dangerous situation in the Middle East where Soviet intrigue is trying to undermine the long-standing friendship between the peoples of those countries and the peoples of the West.

"The rapid development of the wealth of the Middle East since the discovery of oil there is both an opportunity and a hazard.

"The standards of life of many of these countries can be enormously increased if peace and order prevail.

"At the same time, these countries are a prize to which jealous eyes are looking, both for the value of the oil resources and for the sake of the effect which trouble in the Middle East could have on the economic life of Europe."

New movements toward economic co-operation in Western Europe and their place in the pattern of an ever-increasing world trade will be discussed.

'Reds Hard, Pinks Soft'

LEICESTER, England (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan told a political rally Monday night:

"There is no difference between socialism and communism except this: socialism is soft, communism is hard; socialism is pink, communism is red.

"Socialism gets you down bit by bit by a kind of anaesthetic process. It might almost be called mercy killing.

"Communism just knocks you in the head."

Another Year

A second extension of his term of office is likely for Governor General Vincent Massey, according to reliable cabinet sources in Ottawa. Mr. Massey's normal, five-year term was extended one year to the spring of 1958 and it is likely to receive another one-year extension.

Avenges Friend

Cleric Shoots Bank Robber

SELLERSBURG, Ind. (UP)—A Methodist minister seized a shotgun at a police roadblock yesterday and killed a bank robber who had murdered a state trooper moments before.

The Rev. Robert W. Gingery, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church at New Albany, Ind., turned into an avenging man of action when he saw the gunman kill his friend and parishioner, State Police Sgt. Marvin Walts.

The minister was sitting in Walts' car, grabbed a shotgun from the back seat as the bank robber advanced on him with guns in both hands.

He turned in the front seat of the car and fired at the bandit through the back window. But the safety latch was on the shotgun and it did not fire.

The minister, unfamiliar with guns, finally found the safety and fired again. He got the bandit, identified as William Bassett, 25, of Louisville, Ky., with a single shot through the chest.

A moment later, a strange voice came through the radio receiver at state police headquarters at Charlestown, Ind.

"I KILLED ROBBER"

"Marvin has been shot and I have killed the bank robber," the pastor said tersely. "I'm sure Marvin is dead."

Ten minutes before Gingery picked up the shotgun, Bassett had walked into the Sellersburg State Bank with a drawn gun. He held five women employees at bay and scooped up $1,655.

Walts, a quiet-spoken family man, joined Gingery's congregation two years ago. His religion became a vital part of his life, and, on the anniversary of the day he joined the church, he would invite his pastor for lunch and a drive.

Yesterday was the second anniversary. It was for this reason that Gingery was riding with Walts and on hand to avenge his murder.

Traffic Laws Wrapped Up By New Act

British Columbia motorists will be allowed to pass on the right-hand side on laned highways, under provisions of the new Motor Vehicle Act given first reading in the legislature last night.

The legislation includes a complete code of traffic regulations which is the forerunner of uniform highway laws across Canada. All other provinces are expected to follow suit with similar regulations.

Other main points of the act:

1. Fines for traffic offences will range from $10 to $500 instead of the present varying minimum and maximum penalties for different offences.

2. Right-hand turns against a red light, allowed in Victoria, will become legal througout the province.

3. All municipal vehicles and school buses will be licensed for a flat $2 fee. Officials said this will mean a great saving to municipalities but will prove a little more expensive to school boards.

4. The new legislation will take precendence over all local traffic regulations in individual cities and towns.

The proposed new traffic regulations are basically those adopted by the uniformity-of-legislation commissioners who spent several years working out traffic laws to be uniform across Canada.

B.C. will be the first province to adopt the code.

The change in the range of fines will generally double the maximum penalty for many offences. Such offences as driving while under suspension previously had a high of $250.

Among other new proposed regulations:

Any person judged to be a juvenile delinquent may also be ordered to surrender his licence.

Drivers charged in fatal accidents shall have their licences suspended until the case is brought to trial and a verdict given.

Those drivers who lose their licences after being involved in accidents may not drive again until judgment against them has been satisfied and they obtain additional proof of financial responsibility.

Visitors to the province who become involved in accidents may have their licences suspended and then be allowed to drive out of the province by a specified route.

As members discussed supplementary spending estimates of the citizenship and immigration department, the CCF member for The Battlefords in Saskatchewan said the Indians need to be taught to help themselves.

Discard Ignorance . . . . . . Economist Advises

'Wake Up, Canada—Fight Taxes!'

TORONTO (BUP)—Stuart Armour, economic adviser to the president of the Steel Company of Canada, last night called on Canadians to discard their weakness, lethargy and ignorance to protest against the current level of taxation.

He told the board of trade that "unless Canadians act soon to curb the government's confiscatory and incentive-stealing taxation, there is a grave danger that the country's forward progress will slow to a halt.

"It is up to each Canadian to decide here and now whether he wants this country to be great as a result of an expanding and dynamic private enterprise," Armour said, "or whether he prefers to live here in a static society where life is more and more controlled by the state."

Armour believed that Canadians were now somewhere between "selfishness and complacency."

"Through the current level of taxation, there is a great danger to the continuance of our way of life," he said, "and yet so few Canadians speak out in protest forthrightly or loudly."

He pointed to the great exodus from Britain as an example of the people's antagonism to taxation induced by the feeling of "Oh, what's the use."

"Currently there is almost violent agitation in the United States against the existing tax burden in that country," he said, "which must appear remarkable to complacent and apathetic Canadians when it is remembered that the income of the average American earned last year after taxes was 50 per cent higher than the average Canadian after taxes.

"The only way to cut taxes is to cut government spending," Armour declared, "and the only way government expenditures can be reduced is through the determination of the people of Canada that they shall be reduced."

While You're at It Bathe Your Plants

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

This is about the time of the year when the female of the species gets that glint in her eye which portends that annual upheaval known as spring cleaning. Before the earthquake hits, I'd like to get in a plea to include the houseplants in the scheduled items for spring cleaning.

The poor things are looking a bit woebegone by now. Winter has taken away some of their shine and glamor, and dust has settled on the leaves, blocking their breathing pores and contributing to their hangdog appearance.

The smooth-leafed plants need a bath badly, while the fuzzy-leafed subjects should be dry-cleaned, to remove the grime of winter.

For the plants with shiny leaves—rubber plant, philodendron, cansevieria, palm, maranta, lemon and orange trees—there isn't anything more refreshing than a sponge bath with warm, soapy water.

Use real soap, not a detergent, to make the lather, and it is good insurance to add a drop or two of Black Leaf 40 to the bath water, just in case there should be insect pests present.

SCALE INSECTS

Sponge each leaf on both sides, working from the base toward the tip of the leaf, and keep a sharp look-out as you work for any tiny, shell-like marks which tend to stick to the stems or the leaf surface. These will be scale insects, which for all their innocent appearance, are sucking the lifeblood from your plants while sheltering under their igloo of hard shell.

If only a few are found, they can be picked off with the point of a pocket knife and consigned to the fire before they have a chance to propagate their race. A more serious infestation calls for sterner measures, such as painting the colonies with an oil-base furniture polish.

Once the sponging is completed, go over the plant again with clean, soft water. Even a mild soap might set up an irritation if not rinsed off, and in the case of the furniture polish treatment for scale bugs, it is most important to wash it off within the hour.

The plants with hairy leaves—African violets, gloxinias, episcias, and the like—don't take kindly to sponging, and it is best with these subjects to rid their foliage of dust with a brush. A soft, new paint brush is excellent, and one lady of my acquaintance keeps an infant's hair brush handy for this job.

A big, old Boston fern poses problems all its own, for it is obviously too tedious a job to sponge all the fronds by hand. Your best bet, with this subject, is simply to set it outside during a gentle spring shower and let nature do the clean-up job for you.

SOIT WATER

If you live in a district where the rain is even dirtier than the fern, set the plant in your shower stall and spray it with a pint of soft water to which has been added a teaspoonful of household ammonia.

After spring-cleaning your houseplants, they can be infused with new life by top-dressing. Remove the top inch of soil from the pots, being careful not to damage any roots, and replace it with fresh soil enriched with very old, rotted manure.

Fight Cost Of Schools, Letter Asks

A call for united municipal action against rising school costs throughout the province will be placed before city council when it meets Wednesday to consider the Greater Victoria school budget.

Mayor Percy Scurrah said yesterday he would place before council a letter from the executive director of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, asking member municipalities to write to the premier and education minister giving details of inequalities in the provincial school formula.

"It has become evident the municipal share of education costs is once again becoming increasingly unbalanced due to the inflexibility of the formula," the letter says.

Russia Offers Strength Cut

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia promised Monday to cut the strength of its forces in east European states on condition the West makes a "considerable reduction" in the strength of troops stationed in Europe under the North Atlantic Treaty.

The Russian offer was one of seven points listed for the period 1957-58 in disarmament proposals presented when the Western powers met Russia for a new round of disarmament talks.

Russia also reiterated her counter-proposal to President Eisenhower's "open skies" plan for aerial inspection and photography.

The Russian proposal suggests aerial photography over a 500-mile belt in Europe occupied by NATO and Warsaw Pact forces.

Peak Park

Colwood residents plan to construct a 62-acre park on Triangle Mountain as their centennial project.

Representations have been made to the federal government in an attempt to get the land for a nominal sum. It was offered for sale about a month ago.

The mountain, used for a radar installation by the army during the war, is the highest in the Victoria area. It is about 10 miles from the city.

Play Overcomes Weighty Script

By BERT BINNY

Greater Victoria Schools Drama Festival opened last night with three plays at Mount View High School. Adjudicator was Mrs. D'Arcy Goldrick.

The first play, Mount Newton's "Tutankhamen, Son of Ra," wasn't helped by a half-hour delay in starting, or by a heavy, didactic and cumbersome script. But the play was extremely colorful, beautifully costumed and admirably lit.

Carol Steel as Ankhsenamon had some excellent passages and Gary MacDonald's High Priest of Amon was impressive. Some of the makeup seemed deficient.

Mount View's "Petticoate Preferred" was a continuing delight. Sparked by outstanding performances by Dale Cole and Sheila Brown it kept up a round, spanking pace.

Eugene O'Neill's "In the Zone" was presented very successfully by University School. The cast of eight was entirely capable; it created and held suspense. Fred Allen as Davis and Wilfred Lund as Driscoll were, perhaps, outstanding.

Race Against Spring

There's a race against time and weather in northern Manitoba as tractor trains plow through snow to complete the scheduled delivery of 30,000 tons of mining equipment to Moak Lake, where the International Nickel Co. is developing a $175,000,000 mineral deposit. In a few weeks the spring break-up will render the tractor-train route a morass of impassable muskeg.—(CPC).

Doctor on Trial

Mystery Drug

LONDON (AP)—Crown counsel waved a hypodermic syringe before a jury Monday and said this was the kind of murder weapon Dr. John Bodkin Adams used to [illegible] patients in order to benefit from her will.

Attorney - General Sir Reginald Manningham - Buller opened the trial in Old Bailey criminal court of the 58-year-old society doctor with a graphic account, alleging the doctor used a mystery drug to put Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell, the widow patient, to death.

"Dr. Adams filled a syringe this size three - quarters full of something," said the attorney-general, "and told the night nurse to inject it into Mrs. Morrell who was unconscious."

The fat physician clutched the rail of the prisoner's box and [illegible] toward his moon-shaped face was crimson.

"Dr. Adams refilled the syringe," Manningham - Buller said, "and ordered the nurse to use it again if Mrs. Morrell became restless."

The wealthy widow did become restless, and the nurse once more injected the syringe, he added. "She gradually became quiet and in one and one-half hours she was dead."

"We can't say what those preparations were," he said, "but coming on top of regular heavy doses of drugs, these two injections killed her."

Dr. Adams shook his bald head in violent disagreement.

Six years passed after Mrs. Morrell's death before Detective Superintendent Herbert Hannam of Scotland Yard turned his attention [illegible]

Last December Hannam arrested the physician and charged him with Mrs. Morrell's death.

Rebate Free Of Tax

Premier Bennett said yesterday dividends from the natural resources of the various provinces belonged to the provinces themselves and not the federal government.

He made the statement in reference to the federal government's plan to charge income tax on Alberta's $22 dividend to adult Albertans who have lived in that province for more than five years.

At the same time he said he 'never thought for a moment' that Ottawa would charge income tax on B.C.'s $28 home-owners tax rebate.

Both governments have said the money is coming from greater returns from the development of their natural resources.

"The great issue now is whether the people will be allowed to have a return from their own natural resources without taxation or whether this bureaucracy in Ottawa will prevent them from sharing in their rightful heritage," he said.

Councillor Brushed Off

Trustee 'High-Handed'

The "high-handed" attitude of the Greater Victoria school board and one trustee in particular were scored last night at an Oak Bay council meeting.

Coun. Geoffrey Ellis charged that Richard Reeve, trustee from Esquimalt, had given him a "brush-off."

The issue arose from a letter from six residents of Armstrong Avenue and Cranmore Road. They asked council intervention in "the proposed erection of the addition to Oak Bay High School parallel to our property line."

They claim it would "constitute an encroachment of our privacy and property rights" and would depreciate values. They suggested that "with the large areas available near and adjacent to the present Oak Bay High School and Junior High School, some other part of these grounds could be used for the proposed school building."

Coun. Ellis said, in attempting to get further information on the proposed construction, he had talked on the telephone with Mr. Reeve.

If residents of the area didn't like the proposal, Mr. Ellis said he was told, "they could move to Saanich."

"I didn't like that kind of brush-off," he said.

Reeve Fred Norris pointed out that council didn't officially know of the plans, as the school board had not officially announced them.

Council agreed to lay the residents' petition on the table pending final disclosure of school board plans.

School Work Starting Now

Work on school construction under the school referendum passed March 9 will begin immediately, senior school inspector John Gough said at the school board meeting last night.

First step will be preparation of working drawings for additions to Oak Bay Junior High, Lansdowne Junior High, Frank Hobbs Elementary and Oak Bay Senior High Schools.

The Problem Remains

DISAGREEMENT over apportioning costs in contributions to the proposed $1,800,000 new wing at the Jubilee Hospital among Victoria and its municipal neighbors leaves that problem still to be solved. The accommodation is badly needed. The two senior governments, and the hospital itself, have undertaken to put up a total of $1,350,000 of the sum required; leaving $450,000 to be found by the four municipalities. The 140-bed addition would serve the joint area uniformly, while without this extension the existing pressure on hospital facilities can only continue and grow worse. In view of that the present check over local costs can only be regarded as a temporary one, because in the end a solution surely must be found.

While the basis of the urgent need is the most factual consideration to bear in mind, due allowance should be made for the respective stands by the participating municipalities. Victoria city rightly can point out that its prior contributions to the institution were material and sustained, and that in this sense the city was carrying something more than its share under all the circumstances. At the time the city held the higher population ratio, which has since been reversed in respect of the joint area. At the same time, if disagreement is to be avoided, so must "ultimatums." Here obviously is a problem that in some fashion remains to be worked out amicably by all the participants.

Regardless of what municipal contributions may finally become, it can scarcely be disputed that the Greater Victoria region as a whole is being offered an advantageous deal. Hospital bed space cannot be provided without extensive outlays, and it may be some time before the community again may see an offer of $1,350,000 in sight before it puts in its own contributions. There is nothing theoretical or visionary about the need—it is here now and it is pressing, and this situation cannot be changed without taking forward action.

In the light of the underlying need, it is to be hoped that municipal leaders and their supporting councils will wade into whatever dissatisfaction may remain over the suggested or amended cost-sharing plans. Surely some fair basis can be found upon which all four municipalities will work together in this instance for their common good, with due regard to the rights of all of them. Protracted delay could only make the problem worse.

Tax Filing Made Easier

ANYTHING which simplifies the business of filing an income tax return is always appreciated by the taxpayer, and for that reason Finance Minister Harris' new $100 "standard deduction" plan will find favor. Unless one is more than usually methodical in small matters, receipts which would help to reduce that grim figure under the heading of "net taxable income" are apt to be mislaid as the months go by, and because of that many taxpayers pay more to the government than is legally required of them.

The convenience of the new arrangement cuts both ways, of course. Departmental officials will be saved the time-consuming duty of handling and checking millions of scraps of paper and noting which are allowable as deductions and which are not. The time spent in examining returns will be substantially reduced on that account—with, one is entitled to expect, some saving in the cost of departmental operation. Those who will appreciate the new system most, though, are the taxpayers to whom keeping track of miscellaneous receipts for small amounts has always been a nuisance. Financially also the flat $100 deduction will be helpful to the great many taxpayers whose annual donations to charities and the expenses covered by it fall short of the new allowance.

This is one more step in the continuing process of "streamlining" income tax returns. No one likes making out a return and paying tax, but at least in Canada the routine has been reduced to the simplest possible terms. Unless there is income from a variety of sources the short form is easy enough for the average taxpayer to compile without professional assistance, and those responsible for devising the form deserve much credit for ingenuity.

In principle, however, the standard allowance is exceptionable in one respect. It is tantamount to a reward for parsimony — an unearned allowance to those people who could well afford to assist charities but do not do so. There are many of them in every community; and henceforth there may be less encouragement than ever for them to assist worthy causes.

Real Senate Reform

AN enigma of the parliamentary scene is the Senate. Here is a second chamber that was designed, originally, to play a complementary part with the Commons in the legislative life of the nation. Instead it has been whittled down in power by succeeding prime ministers. Since even the House of Commons gets scant consideration from the ruling executive nowadays it is perhaps not surprising that Mr. St. Laurent is indifferent to the state of the Senate, but this does not excuse his neglect.

The fault lies in Senate appointments being the gift of one man, the prime minister, and until some other method of filling the Red Chamber is devised it will be vitiated of a worthwhile role. It is not good that a Senate seat should be a mere act of patronage, to be awarded or left unfilled as whim and expediency move the head of the government. The present state of the Senate, also, with no fewer than 16 vacancies, shows up in glaring fashion the prime minister's reaction to the Upper House.

Mr. St. Laurent simply does not care. That deduction is obvious, else he would have moved long ago to keep the Senate as close to full strength as possible. Some of the vacant seats have been empty for as long as six years, proof that his interest in the well-being of the Senate is practically nil. Another aspect of his attitude is the present composition of the Upper chamber; 79 Liberals, five Conservatives, two Independents, plus 16 empty seats. Neither the CCF nor the Social Credit party is represented.

If the Senate was truly to reflect the political scene it would contain representatives of each of the parties in the Commons in some measure of proportion. It would also be kept full, allowing only for reasonable time to fill a vacancy caused by death. Six years cannot by any imagination be called reasonable. Time and again there has been talk of Senate reform to make the Red Chamber a valuable legislative force. The first step that should be taken is to reform it out of a prime minister's private prerogative.

Interpreting the News

Canada Not Aid Recipient

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (CP) — The politically-touchy issue of foreign aid is coming to the forefront of the Washington scene.

The big spending program, through which the United States has poured $55,000,000,000 into military and economic aid projects abroad since 1948, shortly will come under searching congressional study. It appears to be in for a rough time.

The recent Senate attacks on the foreign-aid features of President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine are suggestive of the sort of treatment the president's 1957-58 foreign aid program will get.

Eisenhower this year is asking Congress to vote $4,363,000,000 for foreign assistance. Last year he asked for $4,800,000,000 but got $1,800,000,000. This year he may have to take another cut.

Over the years there has been a growing hostility in Congress to continuing foreign aid. Only seven senators voted against the Marshall Plan—the original foreign aid program—when it was initiated in 1948. Last year 30 voted against foreign aid.

Just the other day, William F. Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, and Senator Styles Bridges, chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, joined in predicting cuts of up to $1,000,000,000 will be made in Eisenhower's 1957-58 request.

Few appear to recognize that the vast bulk of the money goes into military assistance which is designed to defend the United States as well as the country where the funds are spent.

Of last year's $3,800,000,000 appropriation, for example, only $350,000,000—less than one-tenth—went into economic development. The rest was in the form of military aid.

Canadian protests to the contrary, many U.S. congressmen still nurse the misconception that Canada is among those nations on the receiving end of American assistance.

In a recent Senate debate a senator from Arizona listed Canada as a foreign aid recipient. Senator Knowland interjected that Canada was not on the foreign aid list but he did concede that the Dominion had received "some lend-lease during the war."

Three days later the Republican leader rose to apologize to the people of Canada and read a letter from the Canadian ambassador pointing out that Canada had not been a lend-lease recipient and, moreover, that she has provided assistance totalling more than $4,000,000,000 through her own foreign aid program since the end of the war.

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A DUCHESS with a valuable necklace can play safe and wear an imitation and scarce a one will know the difference. If anyone does her prudence will be applauded; it is only when a person wears an imitation without owning the original that there is cause for criticism.

On the same basis one supposes a VC winner could have his medal copied and keep his trophy in a safe deposit box. If he lost his cross he might be worse off than the duchess who lost her necklace. Happening that her husband was a Croesus she could buy another one the next day, but the VC would have a hard time having his medal replaced. I should imagine it would take a year at least to persuade the authorities to give him a duplicate cross.

* * *

There is on record the case of an early VC winner who parted with his cross during his lifetime—he was hard up—and wore a dummy. If the latter was well made and he was a known holder no one would ever suspect.

Something of the kind may attach to the cross found last August under a wharf at Kitsilano Beach, a strange habitat for a decoration nearly 100 years old. It must have lain there undisturbed for a long time, surely, else news of its discovery would have brought forth a claimant.

None having turned up, the medal is being sent to England for verification, since there seems to be some doubt as to whether it is an original or a duplicate. It is engraved "S. Mitchell, April 29, 1864, and a descendant of the winner claims to have a cross with similar inscription.

* * *

Unless early crosses were inscribed differently there is a slight discrepancy in the Kitsilano medal, which apparently does not record Mitchell's rank. As I verified yesterday by checking with Commander R. Bourke, VC, modern crosses bear the recipient's rank as well as his name.

Possibly, therefore, the medal found in Vancouver is a copy.

Samuel Mitchell was captain of the foretop of HMS Harrier, doing duty with the Naval Brigade as captain's coxswain when he won the decoration fighting against the Maoris in New Zealand in 1864. A big, strong man, he refused to leave his wounded commander, and "though the danger was terrific" he carried him back to his own lines. Mitchell was specially recommended for the VC by the commodore in command.

* * *

Mitchell died 30 years later, so that the Kitsilano medal, original or substitute, has been an heirloom for some 90 years.

An interesting sidelight on this old-time campaign is that a species of Colonial VC was struck after it ended: a silver Maltese cross, with a gold star on each limb, and "New Zealand" in a gold laurel wreath. Only 20 were issued and they are now worth more than their weight in gold. One sold for more than $1,000.

The Kitsilano cross seems certain of a permanent and suitable haven. The captain of the present HMS Harrier has offered to buy it after it has been verified as original or duplicate. Even if proved to be only a copy, the medal will still be like the duchess' imitation necklace—well worth looking at.

Reports From Ottawa

GEORGE Hees, who is deeper into the organizational side of Tory preparations for the election than most Conservative MPs, has a very confident reply to questions about his party's prospects.

"There isn't a riding in Canada," he asserts, "that we can't take if we have the right candidate."

That sounds like sagacious optimism. But is it? Does it mean much more than (a) if the Tories win a seat they will have had the right candidate, and (b) if they lose a seat they will have had the wrong one?

It reminds me of the rodeo contestants' saying that "There ain't a hoss that can't be rode; there ain't a rider that can't be throwed."

* * *

A good many Liberals, in their efforts to avoid being "throwed," are being bearish on the election campaign. Over and over again lately I've heard Grits say this election will be the flattest in 50 years; that there are no issues; that there's nothing for the voters to get worked up about, and by inference, no reason for voters to withdraw support from the administration.

This is just as much hokum as the Tories' pseudo confidence.

The opposition has no difficulty in listing issues: the pipeline and the pipeline millionaires, rising costs of living, depreciated pensions, the government's "drift towards Socialism," as the Tories see it, and the government's unwarranted reliance on private enterprise, as the Socialists see it. And these are just grab-samples. The Grits' assertion that there are no issues is about as accurate as the Grit assertion last year that no insiders would make killings on the pipeline.

* * *

At this stage in election preparations, the nomination of candidates is the main political activity. The parties want their people in the field as soon as possible, and not later than dissolution of Parliament.

Dissolution could come in a couple of weeks.

For the opposition particularly it isn't always easy to get the "right" candidates. Hees avers, for example, that the Tories have a man in New Brunswick who could beat Labor Minister Gregg, and another in Nova Scotia who could beat Works Minister Winters. But neither of these prospective giant-killers will run, because even successful entry into politics would entail too great a personal sacrifice.

Some companies are reluctant to have their bright young men enter politics. Even if they don't tell an employee flatly that he has to choose between his job and politics, they often imply that.

If the individual decides for politics and gets elected as an opposition MP, he may have to live on the $10,000-a-year salary of an MP and meet the suddenly increased costs every politician faces.

And he has no job security.

If your new MP supports the government, in time a bright future could open to him. And even if he is defeated, he still has certain valuable prerogatives, such as control of patronage in his riding. So the Liberals have little trouble finding candidates. And in some places, like Hull, Que., and Glengarry-Prescott, in eastern Ontario, two Grit candidates are offering to serve St. Laurent and Canada—each one claiming to be the genuine, beware-of-imitations variety.

The Packsack

Homework or Fad?

By GREGORY CLARK

ALONG the street from where I live is a private school for girls. A few blocks north is a high school. This gives me occasion to observe the curious fashion in which the sturdy young ladies of collegiate age carry their school books.

Held in front of them by both hands, and resting against their stomachs, are piles of text books, note books and manuals that must aggregate somewhere between ten and fifteen pounds.

Walking slowly and easily, with a sort of side-to-side sway, the girls in pairs and groups, each with this massive collection of learning supported against their tummies in exactly the same fashion, wander leisurely homeward. Their hands are clasped under the piles of books.

It is a fashion that appears to be universal at the moment, as universal as the fashion of similar young ladies in Eastern lands parading by, all carrying jugs on their heads.

I haven't seen a school bag in several years. It would have to be a suitcase, anyway, rather than a school bag, to accommodate all this pile of academic literature.

Two questions cogie to mind from these observations. Do these healthy, husky young ladies really read all this home work every night? Or do they carry the books merely as a form of exercise, a sort of new-fangled calisthenics?

I never see them going to school in the morning. I take it that their fathers or mothers drive them and their books to school. It is only around 4 p.m. that you will see this easy procession of book-bearers chattily wandering laden home.

But what is disturbing about the whole business is that you never see boys carrying these burdens of books. Boys are to be seen, of course. The odd one, with a scholarly air, might have a reasonably thick school bag. But the great majority of young males seem to be remarkably unencumbered.

If the girls are merely indulging in a fashion, well and good. But if it means they are studying in comparison to the boys in proportion to the books carried home, then the world of men must rouse itself to the danger.

If in addition to their other advantages the women of the nation become better informed than the men, then we are in a heck of a fix.

St. Patrick Didn't Know

By JERRY KLEIN
North American Newspaper Alliance

NEW YORK—The sons and daughters of Erin may sing in praise of Saint Patrick for all the blessings he brought to the Emerald Isle. But when the good saint drove all the snakes out of Ireland, he rid the country of a fascinating and misunderstood creature.

Saint Patrick knew the Biblical story of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden; he probably didn't know that actually most snakes are mild reptiles which like to mind their own business. Few are poisonous, few will bother a human being—and none will roll itself into a hoop and roll across the ground.

Few people understand how a snake actually moves. It doesn't glide, wriggle, slither or slide. It uses its ribs, the tips of which are free-moving, as feet. The snake moves by taking fast "steps" with the tips of its ribs, and leaning from side to side to take advantage of slopes in the ground. It's because these ribs are enclosed inside the snake's skin that it seems to move along so effortlessly.

Sometimes a snake whips its body from side to side. This is when the animal's in some special hurry, and it's trying to push itself ahead faster. Put a snake on a piece of smooth wood or glass, and it's in trouble, because he can't get any toe-hold with those fast-moving rib bones.

* * *

Saint Patrick probably never realized what fragile creatures snakes really are. Expose one to the summer's sun for a while at a temperature of, say, 90 degrees, and he dies from overheating. He'll also perish from cold unless he seeks shelter by early autumn.

Scientists still don't know too much about how snakes sense the outside world. They have no ears to hear with, though they may detect vibrations through the ground. It may use its tongue for both tasting and smelling. But in no case is a snake's tongue poisonous.

Snakes discharge their venom through fangs, or hollow teeth, but of the 3,000 species of snake, only about 250 carry venom. Of these, many are too timid ever to bite, and their venom wouldn't hurt a human being, anyway. Snake venom, incidentally, is white or pale yellow, thick and syrupy.

Of course, biting isn't a snake's only weapon. Like skunks, some snakes can loose a stench that will discourage other creatures from venturing too close. The odor comes from a pair of scent glands located under the base of the tail.

* * *

Many adventure books and movies exaggerate the size of snakes. As the naturalist Alan Devoe has said, "When a six-foot black snake slips away through the grass in its quicksilvery fashion, it looks about 10 feet long even to the coolest witness!"

Devoe says the largest snake on earth is the regal python, which may attain a length of 35 feet. The biggest poisonous snake is a king cobra, which may measure almost 20 feet. But the heaviest snake is the South American Anaconda, which may weigh 500 pounds.

To most minds, the famous boa constrictor seems the most fearful sort of snake. Actually, according to Devoe, the boa may reach a relatively small 16 feet, and he much prefers preying on small mammals and birds than on men.

"Some of the world's oldest superstitions involve snakes, but most of them are without any truth. For example, there's the notion that snakes can suck milk from cows, that they have yellow blood, that they swallow their young to protect them from danger, and that they grow out of horse hairs that are left in water!

There's even the legend that Saint Patrick chased them all out of Ireland. That's probably a fairy tale, too.

Two students from a Canadian college who made a motor tour of the United States report that their blazers seemed to arouse some curiosity among the people they met. The blazers bear the college's Latin motto, "Timor Dei principium sapientae"—"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom."

The curiosity was explained when an Oklahoma waitress asked them: "Where are you all from?"

"Canada," they answered.

"Oh, I see," said the girl. "I've been wondering what language that was."

Letters to the Editor

Tragic Insult

If it were not tragically insulting, the $6 raise to the old age pensioners of Canada would be amusing. It has taken the federal government some years to work themselves up to this "incredible generosity" to people who have worked and paid taxes in Canada (probably the majority of them) for many, many years; but it took a few hours, or was it minutes, to raise the salaries or stipends of themselves, our judges and others, already receiving goodly remuneration, by thousands a year, and to arrange that they should have good pensions for life, if and when they were retired.

There being no means test, the wealthy may snap up the $40 a month pension; the war veteran whose war pension is his income, from a "grateful" country, and but for the wars he would in all likelihood now have a private income of a great deal more, and there being no means test, he would be receiving the $40 along with everyone else. How the government has the nerve and impudence to treat the veteran, blind and otherwise, beyond earning a living, as they do, and themselves so generously, is beyond one's understanding.

As for the children's allowance having been raised; one wonders why the parents have not enough pride and responsibility to bring up and care for their own children. Their fathers were above accepting charity for their maintenance. The money used in this way would and should, go to the pensioners.

Broadcasting Music

From correspondence over the past year with the Vancouver Local 145 of the American Federation of Musicians, headed by James Caesar Petrillo of New York, I have collected the following rules, I quote:

"In order to accept a radio or television engagement you are required to be a member of the American Federation of Musicians. The jurisdiction of Vancouver Local 145 covers Nanaimo and the mainland of British Columbia. To join Vancouver local a person must be resident on the mainland or the City of Nanaimo, B.C. Members of other locals cannot solicit engagements in other jurisdictions except as travelling AF of M members or by permission of the local executive board. As all AF of M locals have local autonomy, it is their prerogative to grant or refuse such permission. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation pays stand-by fees on all musicians entering this jurisdiction who are not members of Local 145."

These rules are applicable to all instrumentalists; I understand singers are not classified as musicians by the AF of M.

It follows that all Victoria and Vancouver Island musicians with the exception of residents of Nanaimo are virtually denied the opportunities of regular engagements with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, which is supported by Canadian taxpayers, and has the advantage of a coast-to-coast network system.

Would it not be possible for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to arrange programs in co-operation with the local stations, as has been done in the past for the Victoria Symphony Orchestra?

Unheard-melodies may be sweeter, but surely Victoria and Island musicians do not wish to remain mute and inglorious forever in so far as the CBC is concerned.

Gift to Houseowners

In Alberta the Social Credit government intends making a gift of about $20 to every person of mature age who has resided in the province for five years or more. This gift is to be paid from funds received in connection with natural resources.

In B.C., the funds are obtained from similar resources as in Alberta but because many thousands of people are unfortunate enough not to own their place of abode, they are discriminated against. The melon is given to a chosen minority: that is, house-owners.

The proceeds of this fund are as much mine as a householder's. Funds received from natural resources belong to all of the people of the province. The province of Alberta has the right idea in all sharing alike. This should also be done here, or the money applied to a reduction of taxes so that all would be treated alike.

Industrial Strife

'Crisis Week' Shadow Falls Over Britain

LONDON (Reuters) — Labor Minister Iain Macleod Monday invited leaders of 3,000,000 British workers to mediation talks as the black shadow of an industrial "crisis week" began to fall over Britain.

Macleod spoke in the House of Commons as the country faced industrial strife that can paralyze its economic heart.

Prime Minister Macmillan Monday night appealed to both sides to accept arbitration rather than "self-destructive struggles."

In a speech to a Conservative rally at Leicester, Macmillan said it caused him "great grief" to leave Britain for the Bermuda conference at a time when she had become "the victim of self-inflicted wounds."

"Surely this is a time when we should accept some form of arbitration rather than to have recourse to self-destructive struggles," he said. "I believe that the overwhelming majority of people feel that the principle of arbitration is fair."

CLAIMS REJECTED

The situation was: 200,000 shipyard workers on strike demanding a 10 per cent pay increase; 3,000,000 factory workers poised to walk out Saturday over a similar claim; talk of a strike by 400,000 railroad workers also seeking a pay raise.

Employers have turned down claims.

The first immediate effect of the unrest was felt on the London Stock Exchange Monday as government and industrial stock fell sharply. The pound sterling tumbled in value as foreign holders sold.

The Surplus Food Stall had the "poorest day yet" Saturday when people were turned away because of the lack of food donations.

Mrs. F. E. Harper, co-ordinator, said only 150 parcels were made up and many people who came late had to leave without any food.

"It was bad with so many unemployed," she said.

She said the next stall day would be April 13 and the committee is hoping for "another very successful day."

Cougars Smash Hopes of Canucks; Marcel, Defence in Sharp Display

BY JIM TANG

It's all over for Vancouver Canucks as far as this season's Western Hockey League playdowns are concerned.

Battling it out to the last whistle at Memorial Arena last night, the Canucks just couldn't find the firepower to beat a solid Victoria defence and an often-brilliant Marcel Pelletier and lost the big one to Victoria Cougars, 3-1.

Result boosted the Cougars, third-place club in the Western Division, five points ahead of the Canucks, who can't make up the difference in the two games they have left on their schedule.

Cougars and New Westminster Royals will play a best-of-three semi-final next week to decide which club will take on the Seattle Americans in the division final.

Last night's game was an entertaining one for the good crowd on hand. Both clubs stuck strictly to hockey from the first to last whistle and the Canucks made the Cougars hustle as they played hard for the points they so desperately needed.

PULLS ALL STOPS

Vancouver coach Art Chapman put most of his eggs in one basket as he sent out Wiggie Wylie and Jackie McLeod as wingmen for Phil Maloney in the hope his three top forwards would get enough goals.

It didn't work out as planned, despite some juggling between the rival coaches when it came to line changes. Vancouver's "big" line was actually held scoreless although credit for Canucks' only goal went to McLeod after it had been put in the Victoria net by Cougar defenceman Bill Davidson rushing back to cover on McLeod's break.

Canucks checked all over the ice in the hope of forcing Cougars into defensive errors but the Victoria defence stood up under the pressure and when Canucks did get in, they found Pelletier in top form. The big goalkeeper once again missed his fifth shutout through bad luck.

Kilburn put the Cougars ahead before the game was a minute old, getting in unnoticed to flip the rebound off a shot by Davidson past Ray Mikulan.

SHORT LEAD

Only 32 second later, the Canucks had it tied up. McLeod got a break on the right side but Pelletier moved smartly to block the shot. The puck dropped free into the crease and Lionel Heinrich was about to clear when Davidson came up fast. In the mix-up, the puck deflected behind Pelletier.

What proved to be the winning goal was the best play of the night. Don Chiupka, again a two-way stickout, started a rink-length play with a pass to Kilburn. Kilburn fed to Doug Anderson with a well-spotted pass and the centre sizzled a low shot behind Mikulan from about 20 feet out.

Canucks came through with a clutch stand midway through the second period when Ralph Keller and Carl Kaiser drew interference penalties less than a minute apart. Maloney, Hugh Currie and Gordon Hudson did a great checking job and Cougars never had a shot on goal.

CLINCHING GOAL

However, it went for nought when the Canucks couldn't beat Pelletier again. Chiupka, shifting smartly after kicking down a flipping puck, got a quick shot past Mikulan at 8.03 of the third period but Canucks refused to admit defeat.

The Vancouver club continued to carry the play and yanked Mikulan for a sixth attacker at 17.23 with Cougars playing shorthanded. But the Victoria defence again had the answer, covering smartly and getting the puck out of its zone when the pressure was greatest.

It was the seventh straight home-ice win for the Cougars, who have scored 35 goals and allowed but nine in the stretch at Memorial Arena. However, they have failed to win since Jan. 29 away from home and will have to end that streak if they are to get into the final.

Last night's score: Vancouver 1, at VICTORIA 3.

Next games, tonight: Seattle at New Westminster; Edmonton at Winnipeg.

Western Canada curling champions, Mrs. Marg Fuller and her rink returned to Nanaimo yesterday, where they received a rousing welcome that included a guard of honor by women curlers, a parade through the city led by the Nanaimo pipe band, and a civic banquet at the Malaspina Hotel. Mrs. Fuller's rink lost only once in the four-days bonspiel at Saskatoon last week. Members of the winning rink are, left to right, Mrs. Fuller, third Mrs. Pat Good, second Mrs. Sylvia Koster and lead Mrs. Edna Quinney.

Million Dollar Pitcher

SARASOTA, Fla. (UP) — General manager Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians disclosed Monday night that he has rejected a Boston Red Sox cash offer of $1,000,000 for strikeout king Herb Score.

"The offer was made to me by Tom Yawkey and Joe Cronin," Greenberg said. "It was a valid cash offer but I was forced to turn it down."

Greenberg told the United Press he hesitated for a moment because of the staggering size of the offer but felt compelled to keep the 23-year-old Score for the Indians "because he may become the greatest pitcher in the game's history."

The straight cash bid of $1,000,000 for Score is believed to be the largest ever made for a ball player.

JOHNNY LONGDEN
. . . fishing chief topic

World's Leading Jockey Longs for Fishing Trip

BY TED SHACKLEFORD

Eleven people sat in the after-cabin of a private yacht in Victoria's inner harbor yesterday afternoon and talked about horses and racing.

Also present was a short, quiet man by the name of Johnny Longden. He tried to talk about Victoria and fishing.

"I think Colwood track was built about '29 or '30," said the customs officer.

"That's right," said the immigration man. "It was about the time of the depression."

"What's the fishing like up-coast?" Johnny asked.

Nobody seemed to know.

QUICK CHANGE

"You've recently ridden your 5,000th winner, Mr. Longden," a reporter said. "Is there any reason why you shouldn't ride your 6,000th?"

"I guess not," Johnny said. "Tell me, was there much fog here this morning?"

"Not too much," said a photographer. "Quite a bit up to 11 a.m." said another reporter. "It was clear in the harbor but it was pretty thick a mile or so out," said either the customs man or the immigration officer.

"I hope we can get an early start," Johnny said.

"Colwood didn't last very long once the depression set in," someone remembered.

Johnny quietly sipped his soft drink while the assembly discussed the merits of different tracks. He waited for a lull in the conversation. "How big is the city?" he asked.

"About 120,000 people," someone said. The conversation shifted to memories about racing in Victoria.

"How long would it take to walk around it?" Johnny asked doggedly.

"Oh, it depends," said a photographer.

"Oh," said Johnny Longden.

"You rode some horses at Colwood back in the old days, didn't you, Mr. Molter?" a newspaperman asked Bill Molter, a leading U.S. trainer.

FIRST WINNER

"Yes, I rode the first winner on the Colwood track," he said, "Vodka was its name —V-O-D-K-A."

"I remember my father telling me about that," said the customs officer.

"I hope the bluebacks are biting," Johnny said.

Together on the ship with Johnny Longden are his wife, Hazel, and Bill and Doris Molter. They arrived on the "Campana" yesterday afternoon and will leave the inner harbor about 6.30 a.m. today for a leisurely fishing trip up-coast.

Johnny Longden didn't confine his conversation entirely to fishing and Victoria—he dropped comments into the racing conversation from time to time—but he seemed reserved in the presence of strangers.

Johnny found out for himself how long it took to walk around Victoria, last night.

Born in Taber, Alta., Longden worked for a time as a coal miner. He rode horses at the old Colwood track in his early days as a jockey.

Now he is the world's leading rider, holding the record for the greatest number of winners.

Saturday he will be back in California again, King of the sport of Kings. But for the next few days he will be Johnny Longden, enthusiastic sport fisherman.

Unless other fishermen recognize him.

Upsets Feature Opening Day Of Annual Victoria Bonspiel

First two rounds of play were completed in the Grand Challenge (Dominion Hotel) event as play opened yesterday in the fifth annual bonspiel at the Victoria Curling Club.

Visiting rinks to win twice were Warren Paul and Harry Spottiswood of the Alberni Valley Curling Club, Ed Valleau's Duncan rink skipped by Tony Folk and tough Vancouver quartets skipped by veterans Fred Tinling and Art Gooder, calling shots for the foursome entered by Alf Millham.

Dr. Kirby Moysey, Fred Kerr, Max Zabel, John Adams, Bill Gates, Jerry Walls, Glen Walkey, Wilkie Gardner, Ed Wilson, Lautie Perlette and Charlie Watson are the unbeaten Victoria skips.

GUTOSKI LOSES

Watson knocked out one of the favorites when he upset Tony Gutoski in the second round. Watson was two-up coming home and drew in perfectly with last rock with Gutoski laying three, all in the outer ring.

Ross Brown of Victoria knocked out another strong contender when he disposed of Duncan's Harvey Hodge, 8-6, in a first-round game. Brown almost made it two in a row against strong opposition but lost to Valleau when Folk made his last rock good to break a tie on the 10th end.

Zabel, who went an extra end before defeating Les Bedford in his first game, came up with another upset in his second game by besting Bob McIntosh, 9-6.

Ed Davis of Port Alberni bested Gar Taylor in a first-round game in which many favored the Victoria rink. Victoria's Ed Wilson moved into the 16s with a fine win over Jack Coates of ParkeVille.

Sixty-three of the 64 rinks entered played as scheduled. Bonspiel officials were trying to line up a replacement last night to fill the draw. Draws have already been made and if a replacement rink is not assembled, a few rinks will move up a round by default.

Showers Tourney All-Star

Mike Potkonjak, six-foot, four-inch centre and playmaker of Cumberland Toppers, was selected as first-string centre of the B.C. high school basketball all-star team.

Potkonjak, who has shown tremendous improvement over last season, was one of the big reasons why the unheralded Toppers reached the final of the 12th annual tournament at Vancouver last weekend.

Jackie Showers, sparkplug of Oak Bay High's eighth-place team, made one of the guard spots on the second team, and Dan Bulatovitch of the Toppers was named to a forward berth.

Remember When:

Johnny Risko, the Cleveland baker's boy, defeated world light-heavyweight champion Paul Berlenbach 31 years ago tonight at New York, but the title was not at stake. Risko went no further, and Berlenbach lost the title to Jack Delaney four months later.

Fouls Again Hurt Vikings As Winnipeg Takes Opener

WINNIPEG — Victoria College Vikings went one game down in their bid for the Western Canada junior men's basketball championship here last night when they were beaten, 71-64, by Winnipeg Imperials in the opening game of the best-of-five series.

Vikings showed only a few signs of wear after their trip from Saskatoon, but once again ran into trouble by collecting too many fouls. Art Chiko, high scorer for the Vikings with 19 points, drew his fourth personal foul early in the second half, and was benched. When he returned late in the game, he couldn't regain his stride.

Ed Melnyk, the Winnipeg junior league's unanimous all-star choice, was the big gun for the Imperials with 22 points.

He was almost the whole show in the early stages of the second half, snaring rebounds off both backboards and scoring from all angles. Melnyk was also deadly from the free throw line, sinking 10 of 15 foul shots.

The teams played evenly through the first half, and the Imperials entered the second half leading by two points, 37-35. Imperials' close checking slowed the Vikings down considerably after the intermission.

Second game of the series will be played tonight. Winner will play Toronto YMHA Whites in the Canadian final. The Whites won the Eastern Canada title Sunday, defeating Davis YMHA of Montreal, 92-65, to win the two-game, total-point series.

The teams played evenly 180-117.

Scorers follow:

Victoria—Dennison 10, Chiko 19, Engelen 17, Kowalik 14, Medline 2, McCulloch 2, Hromeniuk, Flood, Lore. Total —64.

Winnipeg—Melnyk 22, Hayes 16, Bolton 9, Lockerbie 10, McKenzie 10, Mooth, Maisonneuve 4, Block, Donohue. Total —71.

Leaf Shakeup Expected; Klosterman Badly Hurt

HOWIE MEEKER
. . . short career?

Conn Smythe, who Sunday accepted full responsibility for what he termed "a year of failure" by his Toronto Maple Leafs, yesterday offered his resignation as chairman of the board of governors of the National Hockey League.

Although no official reason was given for Smythe's offer to give up chairmanship of the board, it is understood that he wants to devote more time to rebuilding the Leafs.

The Leaf president toughed off rumors about a shake-up in the Toronto executive on Sunday when he made the statement at a press conference, and stated that he would "not even rule out a change in presidents" if it would help restore the Leafs to a top position in the league.

At no time during the tape-recorded conference did Smythe say he was dissatisfied with general manager Hap Day or coach Howie Meeker, but newspapers in Toronto agreed that both are on their way out.

Rumor had it that the names most frequently mentioned in reference to the shake-up were president Staff Smythe and coach Turk Broda of the Toronto Marlboros, farm club of the Leafs.

If Conn Smythe steps down as general manager of the Leafs, it is expected that his son Staff will take over, and that Broda would step up to coach the parent club.

Ford, Ditmar Blank Phillies; Yanks Boost Scoreless Skein

New York Yankees, heavy favorites to retain their American League crown, rah their string of scoreless innings to 24 Monday by blanking Philadelphia Phillies, 5-0, behind the brilliant pitching of southpaw Whitey Ford and Art Ditmar.

The Yanks, who have received fine pitching in spring exhibition action, blanked Cincinnati Redlegs 9-0, behind the tight pitching of Bobby Shantz and Bob Grim, and the power hitting of Mickey Mantle and Andy Carey.

Ford gave up only two singles in the five innings he worked yesterday while Ditmar, the right-hander recently obtained from Kansas City, again impressed with a one-hit performance over the last four innings.

SHANTZ GOOD

Sunday, Shantz held the hard-hitting Redlegs scoreless in five innings, yielding six hits. Mantle powered two home runs, one a 420-foot blast, while Carey knocked in four runs with a single, double, triple and home run.

In other highlights yesterday, Cincinnati and Kansas City both won 10-inning games. The Redlegs nipped Boston Red Sox, 7-6, and the Athletics edged past Pittsburgh, 4-3, on a 10th-inning triple by Mike Baxes. It was the Pirates' third defeat in 10 games.

Andy Pafko, the aging outfielder who sparked a Milwaukee victory last week with a grand slam homer, smashed a three-run homer in the eighth inning to help the Braves to a 7-3 decision over St. Louis Cardinals.

Brooklyn Dodgers scored seven unearned runs in the first two innings against Detroit Tigers and went on to an 8-1 win. Don Newcombe, Sal Maglie and Johnny Podres gave up only seven hits for the Dodgers, who edged the Tigers Sunday, 3-2, on Don Zimmer's three-run homer.

Oak Bay Golfers Lose

Bill McColl and Vic Painter, the deadly team from the Colwood Golf Club, wrested the city open golf buttons from Doug Munroe and Einar Brynjolson of Victoria Golf Club one up, at the Colwood course.

McColl and Painter had a best-ball score of 71, while the defending champions had 72. The Victoria Golf Club duo were making their third defence.

In the junior button matches, also played at Colwood, Cliff Horwood and Jack Walker of Victoria Golf Club took the buttons from Dale Dalziel and Bill Wakenam of Uplands, 2 and 1.

McColl and Painter make their first defence of the open buttons Sunday at Gorge Vale Golf Club when they meet Bob Morrison and Frank Scroggs of Uplands at 1 p.m.

Iverson in Fast Finish To Win B.C. Pin Crown

Wally Iverson of Vancouver, trailing by 38 pins going into the final six-games, won the B.C. tenpin singles championship at Strathcona Bowling Alleys Sunday afternoon with a record 1,199 total in the 24-game competition.

Iverson, runner-up to John Allen by Ron Coulter in the 1956 tournament. Allenby was out in front averaged 179 at Gibson's and 195 going into the last six-game block, but couldn't keep pace with Iverson in that last series.

Iverson mauled the pins at Strathcona for 1,160 in the last six games, while Allenby dropped into second place, 37 pins back of the overall total, with a final count of 1,065.

Wilbur Webb of Victoria placed third in the seven-man competition with 1,045, followed by Victoria champion Ken Munn with 1,022.

Following the top four were Bill Andrews of New Westminster, 4,244; Jack Muzzin, Nanaimo, 4,187; and Biff Ingram, Campbell River, 4,098.

ADDS TO HEAD

Allenby had a 32-pin lead over Iverson going into Sunday's 12 games, and added six more to his margin in games 13-18 at Gibson's Bowladrome. However, in his first game at Strathcona he skidded to 180 and Iverson took over with a 197.

Taking advantage of every break Iverson put together games of 202, 196 and 224 to finish up the week-end with 177 and 157 in his last two games.

Webb was in contention until the final two games. His 201 in his opening game at Strathcona vaulted him into second place, and he was only 50 pins back of Iverson with three games left. However, he ran into split trouble the rest of the way and dropped back to third.

Red Wings Make It Official: Eighth Title in Nine Years

Detroit Red Wings clinched their eighth National [illegible] with a 2-1 victory on home ice over Montreal Canadiens, the team that dethroned them last season.

The win gave the Wings six more points than the Habs, who have only two more games left to play.

Sunday's scores: Montreal 1 at Detroit 2, Toronto 3 at New York 2, Chicago 2 at Boston 6.

Next game: Wednesday, Montreal at Toronto.

Detroit hadn't beaten Montreal since Dec. 2, and it was only their fourth victory in 14 games with the Canadiens this season.

Meanwhile, the Boston Bruins pulled into a second-place tie with Montreal by defeating Chicago Black Hawks 6-2. Both teams have two games left to play.

In Sunday's other game, Toronto Maple Leafs scored twice on an empty net to down New York, 3-2, after the Rangers had pulled goalie Gump Worsley in an effort to break a 2-2 tie.

Dates for the Stanley Cup playoffs will not be set until the second-place battle between the Bruins and Canadiens is decided. Detroit plays the third-place club in a best-of-seven semi-final, and the team finishing second meets New York Rangers in a similar series.

SCORES WINNER

Centre Alex Delvecchio scored Detroit's winning goal Sunday, his 16th of the season. Montreal took a 1-0 lead on a goal by Phil Goyette in the first period, but Johnny Bucyk tied it up on a power play in the second. Delvecchio's effort in the third period also came with the Habs shorthanded.

Dick Duff, Ron Stewart and Tod Sloan picked up the Leafs' first three goals, and Sid Smith and George Armstrong got the two on the open net. Andy Bathgate assisted on goals by Dave Creighton, Dean Prentice and Camile Henry for New York, and in doing so tied his club assist record of 47.

Real Chevrefils scored his 30th goal of the season for Boston, thus becoming the first Bruin to reach that mark since Bobby Bauer did it in the 1946-47 season.

Johnson Fires Overtime Goal As Combines Upset Courtenay

NANAIMO (Special) — Nanaimo-Ladysmith Combines, cheered on by more than 1,000 spectators, upset the favored Courtenay Glaciers, 5-4, in overtime here Sunday in the first game of a best-of-three final for the Suburban Hockey League championship and the Colonist Cup.

Combines, who finished in last place in the four-team loop in regular season play, dropped behind four times in the wide-open battle but finally won it when Stu Johnson fired the only goal of a 10-minute overtime period.

Victorians Fare Well In U.S. Shuttle Meet

A Brentwood doubles team, Muriel Knott and Joyce MacDonald, proved the better of an American duo as they captured the women's open doubles crown in the Washington State badminton tournament at Seattle Sunday night.

The Brentwood Badminton Club pair downed Zoe Yeager and Mary Jean Bushell of Seattle 15-2, 17-16.

Island shuttle players did well in other events. George Lane teamed with Ron Knott to win the veterans' doubles championship, defeating Carl Anderson, Seattle, and Russ Hill of Portland, 15-12, 15-12.

Mrs. MacDonald and Lane lost a hard-fought 17-16, 15-7 decision to Don Davis and Donna Connolly of Seattle in the finals of the open mixed doubles.

Two Victoria players, Bob MacMurchie and Reg Hoadley cleaned up in the class B men's doubles event, winning 15-8, 15-7 over the Vancouver entry of Chuck Forbes and Art Yeske. MacMurchie paired up with Rose McGregor of Vancouver to win class B mixed doubles honors after a three-game marathon against Joyce Jones and Hugh Mitchell of Seattle.

Men's open title went to Don Davis of Seattle. He downed Vancouver's Bert Fergus 17-14, 15-8.

But Vancouver gained some consolation when Claire Lovett picked up the women's singles title by defeating Mary Ann Wolfe of Portland, 11-6, 12-11.

Nip Sage and Bond were in to send Esquimalt ahead after the intermission but veteran Stan Wiseman shot back two quick goals to bring Cartage-men out front again, 5-4. Len Power evened the score for Esquimalt to set things up for Crisp's winning tally.

Heaneys had to give up the lead three times before a goal by Nelson Crisp at 26 minutes of the second half gave them the nod over Esquimalt.

Logger Faces Murder Charge

CAMPBELL RIVER—Vernon Ernest Breckton, 34, of Quadra Island, was taken to Oakalla Prison yesterday, immediately after being charged with the stabbing murder early Sunday of William Wallace, 21-year-old fisherman, on Quadra Island.

A logger, Breckton appeared yesterday before Magistrate Roderick Haig-Brown in Campbel River court, but the case was adjourned without plea to March 27 for a preliminary hearing.

Information on the incident was sketchy from RCMP officials.

It is believed a fight took place on the road near Quadra Island Community Hall between Quathiaski Cove and Heriot Bay early Sunday after a St. Patrick's Day dance at the hall.

Wallace's body was found on the road by police with multiple knife wounds in the back. A 7½-inch butcher knife lay nearby.

The death took place about 300 yards from Breckton's shack. He was picked up by police at 3 a.m. and held for formal charging.

Wallace, a member of the Cape Mudge Indian band, is survived by a widow and three children, one of whom he had not yet seen.

His wife was reported yesterday to be "on her way home" with her newborn child.

She left the village in mid-February to visit her parents in Calgary. While there she gave birth to the child.

Although police said they had been unable to advise Mrs. Wallace of her husband's slaying, it was reported in Vancouver that she phoned her village from Vancouver Sunday and told a resident: "I have just heard about it. I'm on my way home."

Breckton apparently had been on Quadra Island only a short time. He had purchased a shack where it is believed he lived alone.

Nanaimo Press Dispute Settled

NANAIMO — An edition of The Daily Free Press hit the streets of Nanaimo a little later than usual yesterday, but in time to continue the evening paper's tradition of 68 years of continuous publication.

Presses started rolling soon after management signed a contract with typographers at 1.30 p.m., six hours after pickets had been placed around the newspaper's new office.

Agreement was reached on all outstanding points. The contract will include a wage increase of 10 cents retroactive to Oct. 1, and another 15 cents to begin next Oct. 1.

The 18 typographers will get $2.45 an hour by next October for a five-day, 37½-hour work week. All had been agreed on earlier.

The issues which provoked the strike—jurisdiction over the paper's proofreaders and adjustments in a clause covering teletypesetter operations — were settled in negotiations after the men walked out.

The Daily Free Press, with a circulation of 7,300, has published every day except Sundays and statutory holidays since it was founded in 1889.

Mooney Survey Favors One-Way

BY R. O. MARRION

Words were flung in anger yesterday as city council debated, inconclusively for the time being, what it should do about Fountain Circle.

But a fight over Fountain Circle was only brought to an end through a surprise report by Ald M H Mooney traffic chairman that 85 per cent of the owners and occupants along Douglas from Princess to the roundabout were in favor of the one-way plan.

Store's Move

Ald J Donald Smith objected. Council had a report he said, paid for by the tax payers and should proceed with a trial of the one-way plan. To wait for a report paid for by particular interests' he asserted, was wrong in principle.

'Pressure Group'

"We are here to represent the people not to have government by pressure groups," declared Ald Smith.

It's a difference of opinion." Mayor Scurrah shot back at him. "Courage has nothing to do with it. I am not sold personally on the necessity of one-way streets at the present time."

It's bound to be biassed," Ald Smith asserted.

Trial Pressed

"It would not do to keep such men's merchants are put out of business" said Ald Edgett.

This is interesting. It's something I had no knowledge of. I want to do what's best and if the property owners and business people want the one-way plan, it might change my thinking" said the mayor.

BY PETER BRUTON

EXPENSIVE EXPENSES: From here on in until the end of the session the 51 members of the legislature will be shelling-out money from their own pockets when it comes to living expenses.

Each session the MLAs are paid $15 a day for expenses with a maximum ceiling of $[illegible]. It covers exactly 30 days to reach the $450 and yesterday was the 30th day.

This year however members of the [illegible] each will receive their salary from $[illegible] to $[illegible]. The $900 is [illegible].

* * *

FIRST FIRST: As far as legislative authorities can recall, yesterday was the first time in B.C. history that an ordained woman minister has read the prayers prior to the opening of the daily sitting.

The minister was Mrs. Beatrice Bishop, pastor of the First Spiritualist Church in Vancouver.

* * *

LIFE'S LIKE THAT DEPT. Premier Bennett lost reporters in the corridor yesterday that he gave up the predictions about what would happen in sessions other than giving the opening date.

"You said there wouldn't be any night sessions Mr. Premier," countered a reporter, preparing for another wearying night meeting.

"Hah!" retorted the premier. "I didn't mean there wouldn't be any night sessions. I meant there wouldn't be any all-night sittings."

* * *

SPECIAL OCCASION: Pr[illegible] had lunch yesterday with their [illegible] end of the Lotus and they solved [illegible] at the other.

The boys were guests of Mr Speaker Thomas Irwin, who surprised the legislature at the beginning of the session by providing a team of pages after the Greater Victoria School Board had refused to let its students off from school.

At the other end of the table was Rev Brother C P Lyons, principal of St Louis College who expressed his pleasure at the honor which had been bestowed upon his students.

After polishing off hefty steaks and pie a la mode the boys had a fine time getting MLAs to autograph their menus.

* * *

TWO WEEKS TO GO: The present session will last another two weeks at least, in the opinion of Premier Bennett.

He said yesterday prorogation would come "at the end of next week at the earliest."

* * *

PITY THE POOR PATIENT: Dr[illegible] found the city people [illegible] as a group [illegible] quite their share of the operation [illegible] among stops to the yesterday on the Workmen's Compensation Board problems [illegible] his part of the country.

Italian Pizza Pie Popular As 'Something Different'

From time to time you and I in this space have considered the occasional use of foods and recipes from various other countries. But I don't think [illegible] on Italian possibilities have we? In our efforts to avoid monotony in meal-planning it's a good idea to welcome suggestions from far afield. The reason this came to mind was the recent appearance in our stores of an excellent line of packaged and canned products developed by a famous Italian chef. As I've told you before I make it my business to so far as time and opportunity permit to try all such new foods when they appear on the market.

And so it was this last weekend, when two completely unexpected guests arrived from up-Island, turned with joy to two tins of spaghetti and meat balls with tomato sauce. In no time flat, along with quickly cooked fresh broccoli and lots of crisp Melba toast, we had a very tasty and colorful supper. Now I am anxious to try some of these other Italian-style foods, of which there are about seven or eight, marketed under the same chef's name.

While we're on this subject I thought you might like another time-saving recipe. Rather [illegible] recipes. These [illegible] pizza pies [illegible] pizza pies [illegible] pizza pies left unfinished) ... the director ... Pandro ... was ... of ... pace.

'The Last Tycoon'

It had all the advantages of a first draft which are many and all the disadvantages which are also many. It was highly original, this story of a movie magnate who greatly resembles the late Irving Thalberg who was immensely perceptive about an industry that is mostly represented by caricature and, even in outline, it had an air of importance about it.

... of ... about it. ... Scott ... DEFICITS PRESERVED ... idea that Monroe Stahr was an ...

In the TV version the idea was greatly simplified. Mr Palance was shown under the surveillance of an avenged money man, Keenan Wynn. Presumably his job was at stake if he failed to impress but since the character played by Mr Palance already realized he was dying, this is a matter of small importance.

Still sketchy, unfinished and experimental as it was, "The Last Tycoon" was quite a TV drama, strange, haunting and memorable. There was a perfectly wonderful scene at the beginning in which Monroe Stahr tries to teach a British author how to write for movies, copes with and masters a Brando-like movie star, resurrects an old-time movie director from suicide, and fends off Keenan Wynn—all more or less in one breath.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

The sweep by Playhouse 90 and Caesar's Hour of 11 of the 29 Emmy awards Saturday night will have two big results.

First, it will force NBC and possibly even ABC to present 90-minute weekly shows next season or earlier. Second, it is almost certain Sid Caesar will retain his hour long show next season, although possibly on a different night.

Caesar's ratings have been poor this season and there was talk of restricting him to half a dozen "specials" a season. He still may not be tremendously popular with the public and may only be a comedian's comedian but NBC cannot do much about the prestige of five Emmys.

The awards show itself was pretty bad. The humor was forced and Nanette Fabray's hosting was sickening. The Academy Award show on channels 2 and 4 March 29 should be better, what with Jerry Lewis back at the controls.

* * *

OTHER WEEKEND REVIEWS: It was a bad week-end for Nanette Fabray. Her Emmy appearance was too theatrical and her Alcoa Hour comedy Sunday was far too dull. Happy things are looking up as Nanette and Art Carney will team up for the TV musical, Jumbo. Miss ... No information as to why Bernice Little failed to appear with Ed Sullivan ... Alex Barris finally made that guest trick Saturday. What brings to mind is, this show never fails to please.

* * *

TV BITS: Best TV-viewing today includes Caesar and Company's "Eric Mat Brewer" guest appearances by Tab Hunter and Patty McCormack ... CBC's documentary on a mine disaster ... Climax 12 has replaced Jane Dean RN with Life With Elizabeth at 12:30 noon daily ... Hugh Wyatt Earp O'Brien will emcee the Gleason show March 30 ... Jane Wyatt is sponsor is cancelling ... The columnist will end his new dramatic show "The Walter Winchell File" ... Gene Kelly will emcee the NBC baseball show April 29 ... Gary Merrill is starring a series called "Hey Mac."

Typographical gremlins were responsible for that incorrect (and six week old) story about Buckley telecasts and Jean Beliveau in this column Sunday. Thanks to those who phoned about it Sunday—this writer was as surprised as they to see it.

'Best in Antarctic'

Hillary Party Wins Acclaim

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (CP)—Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Mount Everest, and his New Zealanders are ending a fine first season in the Antarctic.

With the departure of the summer party by the expedition ship, Sir Edmund and his men are settling down to the southern winter with a great record of achievement behind them.

They so impressed Rear-Admiral George Dufek, commander of the United States Antarctic expedition, that he declared on returning to New Zealand that the Hillary party, in proportion to numbers and resources, was making a greater effort than any of the 11 nations in the Antarctic.

CLAIMS SOVEREIGNTY

"We watched the New Zealanders work under Sir Edmund Hillary and Dr. Trevor Hatherton (second in command)," he said. "I don't think you could have picked two better leaders they are in there pitching all the time."

New Zealand claims sovereignty over a big slice of the Antarctic extending to the pole and named the Ross Dependency, but this is the first full expedition the country has ever sent there.

It had three aims:

1. International Geophysical Year observations.

2. Preparing the second half of the route for the British trans-antarctic expedition which will attempt the first land crossing of the continent next season.

3. Establishing the claim to sovereignty in the exercise of state functions.

How much is a family man worth?

The example you set your children . . . your unexpected gift . . . a game of 'leap frog' or a 'piggy-back' . . . these are a few of the attentions you bring your family that could never be measured in dollars and cents.

Apart from these considerations, however, you are the one who brings home the pay cheque. Your contribution as a breadwinner has a definite value. Your salary clothes your family, feeds them, houses them, and educates your children. Transfer of Warship to East Feeds 'Gift to NATO' Rumors

The navy minesweeper HMCS Comox is to be transferred from Esquimalt to the Atlantic Command of the RCN.

The disclosure yesterday from a top naval official on strength to rumors that the ship of the Second Canadian Minesweeping Squadron is to be given to a NATO country.

The official had no comment about the NATO transfer, but noted it is Canada's policy to transfer vessels to NATO.

The coastal minesweeper is being transferred to the East Coast, however, he said. Date of transfer was not yet known.

Two improved types of sweepers now are being fitted out at Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot. They will join the Second Canadian Minesweeping squadron here.

Minesweepers also are being built on the East Coast so it is not considered likely the Comox will be joining the Atlantic Command on a permanent basis.

The navy also announced yesterday that HMCS Cordova, last of three coastal escorts of the former second Canadian reserve training squadron, will be paid off into the reserve fleet at Esquimalt April 15.

She has operated for six years in coastal waters as a training tender for the RCN Reserve. The other two ships, Digby and Brockville are already in reserve.

Main use for the ships was for short cruise sea-time for naval reservists. It is believed ships of the operational fleet, mainly frigates, will take over training duties.

The Cordova, bought from the United States in December, 1951, is a wooden-hulled vessel that was refitted as a training ship at that time.

Studebaker-Packard matches the superior performance of its built-in Supercharger with the most effective brakes on the road.

Today's higher horsepowers, greater weight, higher speeds demand brakes with extra margins of safety. Here are four important ways that Studebaker-Packard gives you this additional safety:

1. Largest brake linings. 1953 square inches of brake lining are carried by the Studebaker Golden Hawk—largest, safest brake lining area per pound of car of any automobile made today!
2. Air-cooled drums. Heat robs brakes of their effectiveness. Studebaker-Packard was first with specially "finned" air-cooled brake drums that actually double the effective cooling surface.
3. Self-Centering. The entire, oversized brake lining area is automatically brought into uniform contact with the drums. Reduces wear and assures unswerving, straight-line stops.
4. Self-Energizing. The forward motion of the car itself helps apply the brakes. You get greater safety, easier pedal action.

Better brakes, superior acceleration, surer handling add up to Command Performance. Drive the '57 Studebakers and Packards at your dealer's, today.
